There are two ways to handle re-distillation (or similar processes) in OrchestratedSpirits:

1. Treat it as an additional (optional) step in the process. If this is required for TTB (or just something you are interested in tracking) then it would make sense to create this step.
2. If it's not required then you may consider keeping the re-distillation step out and combine multiple steps in one (e.g. "Distillation" step actually encompasses 3 distillation steps and is recorded when the third one is completed).