The video training component is the backbone of the on-demand implementation.

It is important to watch and train in your respective area. Additionally, it is best to have at least one individual who has a solid grasp on all processes and concepts in the system. If that's not possible - we highly recommend consulting with some sort of expert for those areas in which additional work is needed.