User-Defined Fields (UDFs) can be added to the QC windows, same as on PdOs, but the question goes back to whether you're interested in reporting on this data?

One important reminder is that standard reporting will not include any UDFs you create, so if this is something you'll want to report on, you'll want to instead rename fields already in the QC window (hold Ctrl and double left mouse click the field name). Keep in mind that you can rename fields but not change the field type (date field, decimal number field, text field, etc).

If you prefer to create your own UDFs instead, please see Create User Defined Fields for more information.
