

How Do I Add Utilities, Wages And Overhead To My Production Costs?

These can be added to the Bill of Material (BOM) as non-inventory items so that when each Production Order (PdO) is processed, the corresponding costs for wages and utilities (and any other expense, for that matter) could be included in the total cost of that specific production process.

Typically, we recommend the client wait to add these until they're very familiar with BOMs and PdOs because adding non-inventory items adds complexity to the process so we want to ensure clients are familiar with the basics before going more advanced.

For more information and a video walk through, see

<https://support.orchestrated.com/hc/en-us/articles/216034707-Adding-Non-Inventory-Cost-Into-Production>